

Eskimos Play Their Last League Game Tonight

BALL PLAYERS GOING SOUTH

Southern Migration From the Big League Cities Speeded up Considerably.

NEW YORK Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—The southern migration sped up today and several squads which are already numbering their losses have been augmented by new arrivals while others are still to come.

Seventeen of the clubs, several officials, newspapermen and guests were present at the annual meeting today for Catalina Island route. Five of the Chicago Nationalists, including "Laddie" Maraville and his wife, were present, having already at the island with Manager Bill Kilkenny.

The opening session was planned for Monday.

Left Darrow, trainer of the Tigers, left Darrow for Augusta, Ga., this morning to attend preliminaries of the Southern Association's opening day tomorrow. Former Major League pitcher.

The Yankees squad at the Peterboro, Ont., hotel will be here today with the arrival of Schwartz, Art Nehf, Bill Ryan and Eddie Cicotte yesterday. Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman, is reported to have arrived from New York.

The St. Louis Cardinals are back at work at Stockton, Calif., and the Browns will meet the visitors again Sacramento, Art Nehf, Bill Ryan and Eddie Cicotte, yesterday.

Today, Seeger, Ga., the Browns had their first work-out this winter.

Reports from Fort Myers, Fla., say the Indians are rapidly in the swing of things there starting today. Manager Mack ordered only one day off.

TIGERS WILL MAKE THEIR LAST APPEARANCE HERE

Duke Keats and his gang of Bluejays-savers will make their last appearance of the season here in a scheduled Western Canada Hockey League fixture at the Arena tonight at 8:30 o'clock, when they will tangle with the Calgary Tigers.

There is a chance, a slim one, that the Laks by winning tonight can make the grade into the play-off. If Saskatoon wins from Victoria, the Laks will go down the road if paved for the Laks, on the other hand, if the Eskimos lose tonight's game, it will be all over.

Right now their chances of entering the play-off look very slim. Keats needs tonight's game in the worst way and it can be depended upon him to do his best to "win out."

It is hot between Edmonton and Calgary, and if this city can not get into the play-off, they can at least lay some serious claims into the aspirations of the Tigers, a thing that Keats and company will be out to do.

Besides, the Laks realize that there is yet a chance and no matter how slim it may be, they will try.

Local Villagers will be more than in for a wild ride by.

The teams will likely start the following:

Edmonton: Shantz and Trapp; Keats, Britton and Stanley; Skeete, McRae, Morris, Bishop and Morrison.

Calgary: Winkler, Mackie and Gardner; Sparrow, Wilson and Oliver; Anderson, Crawford, Gorman.

Carl Battell will probably act as referee.

ROVERS BEAT HOTSPURS 3-1 HERE TOMORROW

Re-play of Third Round of English Tie Brings Forth Good Games.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—In the third round of the English Cup, the London Rovers event to take place tomorrow. Saturday night, the Rovers will be the hosts to the Peterboro City Red Devils.

ROYAL.

The Royal curling rink will begin its next bonspiel series on Saturday afternoon. There are a great many rinks entered and the management wishes that all entries be made in time to enable them to congeal the ice. If you find it difficult that they cannot play, it is desirable that you make arrangements so that substitutes can be arranged for.

THE "NOMINATION" OF MR. STEWART.

A correspondence takes exception to the action of the President of the West Edmonton Liberal Association in tendering "nomination" for that constituency to Hon. Charles Stewart, arguing very properly, that a nomination can only be made at a convention of delegates called for that purpose. The association is taking a severely liberal view of the matter, and overlooks the obvious condition upon which the offer was made. All who are familiar with Liberal principles and methods understand quite clearly that neither the President nor any other officer of an association of that party can present a nomination or agreement to any constituency without the understanding that the proposal shall be ratified at a regularly called nominating convention. That was the implied condition upon which the suggestion was made to Mr. Stewart, and there cannot be any doubt that he understood fully that it was made subject to such ratification.

When Parliament comes to consider a readjustment of that kind the decision of the Supreme Court will be a document of first importance. The members will have before them this declaration of intent that the Crow's Nest agreement is a binding contract upon Parliament. The member or speaker of the house may be asked to rescind the terms of the "general overhaul of the freight rate structure" which they have been urging for some years. They will have to put their cards on the table, and give concessions if they want to get rid of the Crow's Nest. The value of the agreement as a rate regulator had been accounted by the verdict, its value as a lever for bringing the railways to make a new bargain remains, and it will be for Parliament to see that if favors are granted favors are also received.

Then comes the decisive point: clear, that the authority of Parliament to regulate rates by statute is not affected by the general law upon which the Railway Commission functions and from which it derives its power. Parliament can therefore replace the Crow's Nest agreement with another rate agreement equally binding and beyond any interference by the Commission.

Ex-Premier Drury's broadening out policy is succeeding. His group has broadened out into two groups.

Hon. Jacques Bureau says he doesn't believe any individual can stop smuggling. Not so far as there are people crooked enough to try to "beat the Government," and that will be interested in such matters.

THE CROW'S NEST DECISION.

The Crow's Nest freight rates agreement, the famous spring load contract between Ontario and Quebec, is now dead. The Supreme Court of Canada has decided that the Act embodying this agreement is binding upon the Board of Railway Commissioners. The order by which the majority of the Board undertook to set aside that legislation is thereby declared void, and the refusal of Commissioners Oliver and MacLean to consent to the decision of the Dominion Government which refused to accept the order as good law, took the position that the Crow's Nest Act was a special act overriding the powers conferred upon the commission and exercised its administrative authority to reinstate the Crow's Nest rates of the time of the finding of the Supreme Court should be known. That fair decision is a clear victory for the public against the railways, and justifies the western provincial Governments in carrying the appeal to the courts against the order which purported to veto the agreement.

On the question of where the Crow's Nest rates are to apply the decision is as clear a verdict for the railways against the public. The Court holds that the C.P.R. is right in contending that the agreement applies only to points which were served by C.P.R. lines when the agreement was made, and continues to serve them at the present time, and also of some eastern shipping centres during large trade with the West; has been that the provisions of the agreement should apply to all points now served by that company. By the decision the company's claim is upheld and that of the appellants is disallowed.

The practical effect of that is to continue free shipping on the territories through which the C.P.R. operated when the agreement was made. The Crow's Nest schedule is in force and is to remain in force. Elsewhere the rates sanctioned by the Railway Commission to continue. So far as the West is concerned the agreement will still be in force in some parts of the country and will have the benefit of substantially lower rates than the northern half on the commodities affected. The difference between the charges on shipments made to Edmonton and to Calgary from the same point in eastern Canada is to amount to about twenty-five per cent with corresponding spread between other points in the West lying in the southern and northern belts.

To break down that discrimination is the next step in the readjustment of freight rates on a satisfactory basis. Because of one half the western country being served by the C.P.R. it is higher to make the removal of this difference a matter of vital and urgent importance. Obviously the country cannot make uniform progress under a rate system which penalizes one half to the advantage of the other. The C.P.R. has been fully ignored in an arrangement of that character. There is no reason, other than that the law says it shall be so, why people living in central Alberta should pay more for the same amount of railway service than people living in southern Alberta. As the government has declared that to be the law, the response is to secure a revision of the law which will establish equality of rates for equal service.

That puts the rate question squarely up to Parliament. It gives importance also to a statement recently made by Premier King that equalization of rates is the problem which the government will stand for when the time comes to be dealt with. That the question will come up at the present session is to be expected. It is too important to be ignored or postponed. It is not to be supposed that Parliament will undertake to revise or interpret the Crow's Nest rates so as to make the scheduled rates apply elsewhere than in the C.P.R. system. A bargain must be kept, even when it turns out to be in some respects a bad one. And it is not to be forgotten that while the northern half of the prairie country is now subjected to discrimination, it has enjoyed lower freight rates for the last quarter of a century than it would have had if the Crow's Nest agreement had not been in effect.

It does not follow at all that Parliament cannot eliminate the discrimination complained of. The Crow's Nest agreement is law over the greater portion of the C.P.R. system in the West. It is not to be overlooked that the Railway Commission cannot overrule that. That the Commission would concede higher rates in that territory if it were free to do so has been shown by the fact that it did this when it thought it had power to cancel the agreement. The C.P.R. is quite as anxious to get rid of the Crow's Nest agreement as the people are, particularly in the prairie country, to get rid of discriminatory freight rates. What may be looked for is a proposal for a new deal in freight rates by which equalization will be established, perhaps on a somewhat higher level than those of the Crow's Nest schedule, but which will be lower than prevailing rates where that agreement does not apply.

When Parliament comes to consider a readjustment of that kind the decision of the Supreme Court will be a document of first importance. The members will have before them this declaration of intent that the Crow's Nest agreement is a binding contract upon Parliament. The member or speaker of the house may be asked to rescind the terms of the "general overhaul of the freight rate structure" which they have been urging for some years. They will have to put their cards on the table, and give concessions if they want to get rid of the Crow's Nest. The value of the agreement as a rate regulator had been accounted by the verdict, its value as a lever for bringing the railways to make a new bargain remains, and it will be for Parliament to see that if favors are granted favors are also received.

Then comes the decisive point: clear, that the authority of Parliament to regulate rates by statute is not affected by the general law upon which the Railway Commission functions and from which it derives its power. Parliament can therefore replace the Crow's Nest agreement with another rate agreement equally binding and beyond any interference by the Commission.

Ex-Premier Drury's broadening out policy is succeeding. His group has broadened out into two groups.

Hon. Jacques Bureau says he doesn't believe any individual can stop smuggling. Not so far as there are people crooked enough to try to "beat the Government," and that will be interested in such matters.

The difference is that in Alberta people are willing to spring load contracts with Ontario, while they are wishing it hadn't come into effect so suddenly. Toronto firms are threatening to sue the city because the Don river cannot carry off the water fast enough, and correspondingly moist conditions seem to prevail generally.

Otherwise, people must accept a visiting clergymen that there is a good deal of religious pugnacity in the world today, based on the conception that peace is cheap at any price. Putting it more crudely one might say: a somewhat perverse desire to maintain affiliations with the church while keeping on terms of benevolent neutrality with the devil.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric experts say the Spray Lakes power scheme would cost $15,000,000. They do not say whether the Government should undertake the work or let a company do it. It was not part of their business. Besides it wasn't part of their business. A fifteen million dollar scheme to supply power to the cities is one thing the Government can decide to leave alone without expert advice.

Two thousand car loads of logs were shipped from one company last month, and the month after, to another. It is one thing to sell logs, never to "brake" unless because of drought or some other non-enrollable factor. The log made the Mississippi valley the wealthiest farming community on earth. It will do the same for sections of Alberta where it is given a fair chance.

It will do the same for sections of Alberta where it is given a fair chance.

Premier Greenfield says the Government will contribute no more toward relief for unemployed. Unless spring is to be uncommonly late that should not be necessary. The break-up is near enough now that a man who really wants a job can get one. A man who can't probably land one if he gets out and hangs around.

"Clusters" in the cities are constrained to do that the easier it will be for the non-farm relief to find wages to support his family. To continue relief to outsiders, save in cases of actual distress, would only perpetuate a difficult situation and keep men in town who will be needed on the farm.

APPEAL COURT HEARS COUNSEL

Argument of Crown Against
Appeal on Behalf of Dr.
Hislop, Progressing.

The hearing of the Hislop appeal still proceeds and it seems doubtful whether it will be completed this week. It is just possible that the Appeal Court may sit this evening and then adjourn until Monday to conclude this afternoon and Mr. McCall desire two hours in which to reply.

Yesterday forenoon A. G. Wallbridge's statement before the jury that the crown could not call any witness to refute the theories of Professor William Royce, he declared, was the most important moment of the day. The court had been asked to rule on the points upon which Justice Caw's argument that he met Hislop's attention was also given some time ago. The question was referred before the jury of the medical experts.

With regard to Mr. Wallbridge's statement before the jury that the crown could not call any witness to refute the theories of Professor William Royce, he declared, was the most important moment of the day. The court had been asked to rule on the points upon which Justice Caw's argument that he met Hislop's attention was also given some time ago. The question was referred before the jury of the medical experts.

Important Point
Referring to one point which Justice Caw had said to be of extreme importance and yet under charge crown counsel, he said, "It would be unfair to say that neither party could afford to let go of this long address to the jury." "It was more or less known at all trials of homicide cases, a trial judge would give a point to every point in charge counsel.

There were many interruptions during the argument as questions were put to the crown from the evidence read in reply sometimes by the defense.

Contending that evidence showed that Dr. Hislop had been to the doctor's office for an examination for pregnancy as Jimmy Dawson, Mrs. Blain and Pettitree before "he had left the Walker house and had been to the hospital," Dr. Hislop very argued that there being a previous history of pregnancy.

Mr. Justice Beck remarked that Dr. Hislop was quite consistent with confidants in his statement that he had nothing to do with an abortion.

Dr. Hislop was assumed by the trial judge, continued the Justice and "I am not going to argue your argument, but not a fact not in evidence."

At first the first jurymen, a sharp jurymen might have thought, was inclined to believe that Dr. Hislop that they, or someone, had been trying to bring about an abortion. But the first jurymen was unimpaired. It is unreasonable that she should have been unimpaired.

Dr. Hislop, Pettitree and Kellie said that she came to find if she were pregnant.

Closed Picture
Justice Beck closed his speech by protesting to Mr. Royce, who answered it by saying that he was pregnant and went to Hislop's office for an examination. His lordship admitted it would be reasonable for any juror to assume that Dr. Hislop would be examined for pregnancy if a certain charge had been made.

Justice Hislop desired to know if the coroner's inquest had been held. The chloroform was given at 11:30 in view of the fact that the examination had been delayed by 20 minutes.

Mr. Royce replied that it discredited the evidence as to administration of chloroform begin-

PROPERTY OWNERS' ASSOCIATION WOULD EASE EDUCATION TAX

William Short, K.C., Suggests That Part of the Taxes for Schools be Taken From Land Assessments and the Rest From a Head Tax on Each Adult.

William Short, K.C., spoke before the members of the Edmonton Property Owners' Association at a meeting held last evening, there being a large attendance of taxpayers.

The speaker suggested that, to ease the burden of the support of education, part of the taxes for the school be taken from the land assessments and the remainder from a head tax.

The meeting went on record as follows:

"We present the petition of the present system of letting children from outlying districts come to the schools. This was causing considerable loss. It was agreed that the amount of money comes from the country must be $4.00 per school year, but again the amount of money to be spent on the education per pupil is $182.50."

Short, concise argument, stated that he inclined to disagree with the motion, but the children came from outlying districts and the tax was not suggested by the outlying districts, but rather by our sundries offset the damage done to the public school system.

"The speaker then said that the business men—the original taxpayers—had been taxed twice, once in several points, including residence upon the Edmonton school system, and again in the form of a head tax.

"He therefore resolved that the Edmonton Property Owners' Association, in its opinion, that the public school system should be relieved of such a great tax."

As a result of a reduction in the number of subjects, particularly in the public curriculum, which should be reduced, the following resolution was passed:

"Three Rs" as the foundation of any education.

"As favoring a severe raising of the standards of academic quality, the school board should be given a larger attendance at high school, thus ensuring that the standards are maintained in full attempt at giving academic education per student."

"He further resolved that copies of this resolution be sent to the school boards of all incorporated municipalities and to the secretary of the Alberta Teachers' Association and to the press."

The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved, that the following resolution be adopted:

"That the Edmonton school system be relieved of the burden of taxation.
